So I would say that most people actually do not support bodily autonomy. All right. There are some other questions that we had prepared, but I think at this point, I'm gonna turn back to Maria, and ask you to, whatever is on you particularly would like to ask further of Michelle. What is your stance on for the men who would like to have the mother to have the baby and the mother doesn't? How do you find that situation and how do you respond with that one?

Michelle Buenrostro

Yeah, that one is really painful, and I can sympathize with the men and feeling helpless in that situation because it's out of your control. The best we advise is, you know, speak to her, support her, let her know that you'll be there for her. And if an abortion has happened, that there is specific counseling for men in these situations.

That's, I did not know that. Yeah. That's important to know. There's counseling for the men as well. Maria? Maria, anything further that you'd like to ask? No. I'm just very impressed with the Secular Pro-Life's vision and mission, which is to work with all different types of people groups, different ethnic backgrounds, religion, non-religion, to help protect the unborn.
